Earthquake, tsunamis slam 5 Asian countries

YOKOHAMA, JAPAN—The most powerful earthquake to be struck by the Indian Ocean tsunami killed about 7,000 people in five Asian countries, including Japan, India, Sri Lanka, Thailand and Indonesia, according to a UN official. The earthquake, which was 9.1 on the Richter scale, struck off the coast of Sumatra on Sunday. It was the most powerful earthquake in the world since 1964.

Aftermath Aerial view of a coastal area in Japan, showing the aftermath of a tsunami. The water has receded, leaving a large area of exposed sand and debris. Trees and buildings are visible in the background.

Quezon folk find lifeline in charcoal

As people of eastern Luzon have been struggling to survive the dry, hot summer since the onset of the summer season, they are finding a lifeline in charcoal.

With only a couple of months left in the summer, the charcoal trade has started to pick up in the region, and some people are already making money from charcoal trading.

For one, a family in the town of San Carlos, Pangasinana, has been making money from charcoal trading since the summer season.

Mr. Antonio A. Mendoza, 55, is the owner of the charcoal business. He has been in the charcoal business for 10 years. He has a small charcoal business in the town of San Carlos, Pangasinana.

Time to rebuild

The 1990s were a decade of rebuilding in many ways. The decade began with the end of the Cold War, the fall of the Berlin Wall, and the collapse of the Soviet Union. It was a time of great change and opportunity. The world was looking for a new direction, and the Philippines was no exception.

The Philippines has a long history of rebuilding. After the devastation of World War II, the country was left in ruins. The Japanese had destroyed much of the infrastructure, and the country was in a state of economic collapse. But the Filipino people were resilient. They rebuilt their homes, their schools, and their lives. They showed the world that they were capable of overcoming adversity and creating a better future for themselves.

Today, the Philippines is a country that is rebuilding itself. It is a country that is full of life and energy. It is a country that is full of hope and dreams. It is a country that is full of people who are working hard to create a better future for themselves. The Philippines is a country that is rebuilding itself, and it is a country that is full of promise.

Tidal waves kill 7,000 in 5 Asian countries

MANILA, Jan. 17 (AP) — A powerful tsunami struck the Philippines on Monday, killing at least 7,000 people and displacing more than 1 million. The quake, which measured 7.2 on the Richter scale, was the fifth largest since 1900.

The tsunami hit the Philippines at about 10:30 a.m. local time, with waves reaching a height of 10 meters (33 feet) in some areas. The quake was felt in several other Asian countries, including Indonesia, Thailand, and India.

The Philippines government has declared a state of emergency in the affected areas. The military has been deployed to assist in rescue and relief efforts. The government has also set up a disaster relief fund to help the victims.

The tsunami was caused by a rupture along a fault line in the Indian Ocean. The rupture was about 1,000 kilometers (620 miles) long and displaced the seafloor by about 1 meter (3 feet). The tsunami waves traveled at speeds of up to 800 kilometers per hour (500 miles per hour).

The tsunami hit the Philippines at a time when many people were still sleeping. The waves struck the coast of Mindanao, the southernmost island of the Philippines, and then traveled northward along the coast. The waves hit the coast of Luzon, the northernmost island, at about 11:30 a.m. local time.

RSP surveys says expectations for 2003 also pessimistic

By David ...

The RSP survey says expectations for 2003 are also pessimistic. The survey shows that consumer confidence has weakened sharply, and that expectations for the future are also pessimistic. This is a significant development for the economy, as it suggests that consumers are less likely to spend money, which could lead to a slowdown in growth.

Gov't seeks scrapping of more tax perks

Julie Lluch's serene Maranao women

By Amanda Gomez

AND HERE she is, the first Maranao woman to be featured in the magazine, the first of a growing number of Filipina artists.

Julie Lluch, a 35-year-old artist from the Philippines, is the first Maranao woman to be featured in the magazine. She is a visual artist who has been working in the field of contemporary art for over a decade. Her work is characterized by its serene and minimalist style, often featuring women in traditional Maranao attire. Lluch's art is a blend of traditional Maranao culture and contemporary art, creating a unique and powerful visual language. Her work has been exhibited in various galleries and museums, and she has received numerous awards and accolades for her contributions to the art world. Lluch's art is a testament to the rich cultural heritage of the Maranao people and the power of contemporary art to preserve and celebrate tradition.

Medication management 1. Review

A 1996 study by the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS) found that women who had been exposed to high levels of lead in their homes during childhood had a higher risk of developing hypertension later in life. The study, which was part of the NIEHS-led National Toxicology Program, found that women who had been exposed to lead levels of 10 micrograms per deciliter (µg/dL) or higher during childhood had a 50% higher risk of developing hypertension than women who had been exposed to lead levels of 5 µg/dL or lower. The study also found that women who had been exposed to lead levels of 10 µg/dL or higher during childhood had a 50% higher risk of developing heart disease later in life. The study was one of the first to show that exposure to lead during childhood can have long-term health effects.

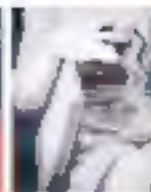

But the authors also warn that, because of the limited number of studies, the results are not generalizable to all patients with depression. The authors conclude that, "the limited evidence suggests that the use of antidepressants in the treatment of depression should be considered on a case-by-case basis."

the 1990s, the U.S. economy has been in a state of stagnation, with a high unemployment rate and a low rate of economic growth. This has led to a loss of confidence in the U.S. economy and a decline in the value of the U.S. dollar. The U.S. government has taken steps to address these issues, but the economy remains weak.

Abstract This paper reports on a study of the effects of a 10-week intervention program on the self-esteem and self-efficacy of 100 low-achieving students in a secondary school. The results show that the intervention program had a significant positive effect on the self-esteem and self-efficacy of the students. The results also show that the intervention program had a significant positive effect on the self-esteem and self-efficacy of the students in the experimental group compared to the control group. The results suggest that the intervention program is an effective way to improve the self-esteem and self-efficacy of low-achieving students.
